The ballot paper will be handed to the elector at the polling place for the District for which he or she is enrolled. It will contain the name of each candidate who is standing for election in that District or Group of Districts.

It is essential that the elector show his or her preference for each candidate whose name is stated on the ballot paper. The elector's preference is shown in the order of his or her choice for every candidate by placing the number "1" in the square to the left of the name of the candidate of his or her first choice, by placing the number "2" in the square to the left of the name of the candidate of his or her second choice, and so on as to indicate his or her preferential choice for every candidate shown on the ballot paper.

It is necessary that the elector's intention be clear, that numbers be used on the ballot paper and that no mark other than numbers be placed on the ballot paper, otherwise the ballot paper must be rejected as informal.
